President Obama on Friday tours the Tuscaloosa, Ala., area in the wake of storms and tornadoes that ravaged the South. REUTERS

SADNESS AND HOPE

SOUTHERN STATES MOURN STORMS' VICTIMS AS DEATH TOLL CONTINUES TO CLIMB

CNN

SMITHVILLE, Miss. Several top federal officials toured tornado-ravaged areas of the South as churches honored the storms' victims in Sunday services.

Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano and Federal Emergency Management Agency Administrator Craig Fugate were among the officials visiting parts of Alabama and Mississippi decimated by one of the deadliest tornado outbreaks in U.S. history.

The visit comes as damage reports from Wednesday's storms grow and the number of dead and injured mounts. The death toll had climbed to 339 on Sunday, according to emergency management officials in six states.

President Obama visited the Tuscaloosa, Ala., region Friday meeting with families affected by the storms.

"We were changed. Our world will never be the same. This moment will forever be etched in the forefront of all our imaginations," Pastor Wes White said at a service in Smithville, Miss., where at least 15 people were killed in the storms. A tornado demolished Smithville Baptist Church, but White urged several hundred congregants gathered under a tent Sunday not to lose hope, but to turn to Jesus.

"In these moments of change and in these moments of hurt, as we look on what was our precious building ... let me remind you of this truth first: When you don't know what to do, you can know where to go," he said.

Alabama's governor declared Sunday a day of prayer to honor victims Sunday, as the funeral of at least one—University of Alabama graphic design student Morgan Sigler—was scheduled to take place.

Sigler huddled in a hallway with friends as the tornado hit. But the twister demolished everything in the house but a closet, where one friend took shelter and survived, later finding Sigler's body in the rubble across the street.

"She just lit up our world; she was our baby," Sigler's mother, Vega, said Saturday.

Alabama surgeon: 'I was just in shock'

CNN

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. Along with the city's power and phone service, the hospital's pager network went down when the tornado hit Alabama.

But like nearly every doctor in Tuscaloosa, orthopedic surgeon Brian Claytor didn't need his beeper to tell him to head to the trauma center.

Claytor said he didn't know what to expect when he arrived at DCH Regional Medical Center on Wednesday.

"The emergency room was just overflowing," said Claytor, 38. "I was just in shock when I walked in to see the sheer volume of injured people and the severity of the injuries."

Patients filled the hallway and every available room. Injuries ranged from minor cuts, lacerations and broken ankles to severe trauma from debris that sliced patients' heads, chests and abdomens.

The wounded screamed for help. Others scrambled through the chaotic scene, searching for loved ones. Pickups screeched into the emergency room driveway with injured loved ones helpless and bleeding in the truck beds.

Early on, the hospital relied on backup generator power. The fierce tornado clipped the back of the hospital. Water and air conditioning were lost through most of the night.

The trauma center turned into a triage unit, much like a war zone hospital. With systems down, doctors, nurses, X-ray technicians and other staff members went into overdrive.

"In the midst of that, we're trying to identify the worst of those injuries and try to get them dealt with as best we could," Claytor said.

"It's just impossible to adequately prepare yourself for that situation. But fortunately, after that initial shock wore off, people got down to work."

Hookup season: Let's get it on

You can feel it, right? At some point this year (I dunno when—this weather blows), the greatest thing to happen to single Chicagoans will commence.

That's right, folks, hookup season is coming.

As I wrote in a column awhile back, the Chicago dating season traditionally lasts from St. Patrick's Day weekend to Black Wednesday. Weather permitting, this is the prime time to get your swerve on. Remember that 80-degree day we had last month? People couldn't keep their clothes on.

Soon, we'll all be busy going to barbecues, rediscovering rooftops and patios and scrolling through some familiar names on our iPhones. But a word of caution: Just because things are looking up and you might get to see other people naked again, don't take this as an opportunity to run through the streets with reckless abandon. You have to get your game airtight to optimize your swag potential out there.

Because I love you, I've compiled some handy Wingman tips to prep you for hookup season.

» Organize your social groups. You'll be spending a lot of time with different groups of people, so keeping them straight will keep you focused on optimum fun. You need a mix of your true friends, those kids who you can count on for an absolutely buck-wild evening, no matter what (I call 'em Sheens); work colleagues; the nice folks from high school and college; and those random dudes who you know only from Facebook and show up at the strangest times.

» Decide what you want. If you're looking for that special someone, don't go out with your freaky friends. Conversely, don't go to a party at your married friend's place if you're after a one-night delight.

» Thursday afternoon, clean your bedroom. It's good to be optimistic heading into the weekend, right?

» If you get tickets to any sporting event, go. Doesn't matter if it's a kickball game or a White Sox doubleheader, you never know whom you'll spill beer on.

» Dress to impress. I'm not saying go blow your check on things like boat shoes and cargo pants (side note: stop wearing cargo pants!), but get yourself together.

» Talk to everyone. Be friendly and be down to clown, and you'll see the benefits. Your network is your net worth.

» On the experimental tip this season, talk to someone whose culture is completely opposite to yours. You'll be surprised by what you might learn. Heads up, though: At no point should you observe the humor or perceived accuracy of a cultural stereotype. Steer clear of the debate about who gets to use certain racial slurs. And never, ever say something like, "Can I touch your hair/skin/Klingon garb?" Just take it from me.

This all may seem like much, but hookup season is here for only a short time. Have fun, be safe and be sure to let me know how you do out there. Game on! ERNEST WILKINS IS CHICAGO'S WINGMAN. HE ACTUALLY ASKED TO TOUCH SOMEONE'S KLINGON GARB ONCE. @REMIXCHICAGO

bin Laden's life and death

Much of Osama bin Laden's life—including his exact date of birth—was shrouded in mystery. Here are some of the notable dates of his life.

1957

Born in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

1979

Joined the Afghan resistance against the Soviet Union.

1980s

Founded al-Qaida, Arabic for "the base."

FEB. 26, 1993

Implicated in World Trade Center bombing that killed six.

OCT. 3-4, 1993

Implicated in Somalia firefight that left 18 U.S. troops dead.

MAY 10, 1997

CNN aired an interview in which he declared a "jihad," or "holy war," against the U.S.

AUG. 7, 1998

Implicated in bombings of two U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania that killed 224.

'JUSTICE HAS BEEN DONE'

OBAMA ADDRESSES THE NATION: BIN LADEN KILLED IN PAKISTAN

From news services

WASHINGTON Al-Qaida leader Osama bin Laden was killed in a mansion Sunday in a firefight with U.S. forces in an area north of Islamabad, Pakistan, and his body was recovered, President Obama announced on Sunday.

"Justice has been done," Obama said in a dramatic, late-night White House speech announcing the death of the elusive mastermind of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on New York and Washington.

Former President George W. Bush, who was in office at the time of the attacks and famously said he wanted bin Laden dead or alive, said the death of the al-Qaida leader was a "momentous achievement."

"The fight against terror goes on, but tonight America has sent an unmistakable message: No matter how long it takes, justice will be done," Bush said in a statement.

Obama said U.S. forces led the operation that killed bin Laden. No Americans were killed in the operation and they took care to avoid civilian casualties, he said.

"The United States has conducted an operation that killed Osama bin Laden, the leader of al-Qaida and a terrorist who is responsible for the murder of thousands of men, women and children," Obama said.

It is a major accomplishment for Obama and his national security team, after many Americans had given up hope of ever finding bin Laden.

Thousands of people crowded outside the White House late Sunday night and chanted, "USA! USA!" in response to the news. In New York City, throngs gathered at ground zero after Obama's announcement. "New Yorkers have waited nearly 10 years for this news," New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg said in a statement.

"This welcome news is a credit to our intelligence efforts and brings to justice the architect of the attacks on our country that killed nearly 3,000 people on September 11, 2001," said Sen. Susan Collins (R-Maine), the ranking Republican on the Homeland Security Committee, in a statement issued Sunday night.

U.S. officials said that after searching in vain for the al-Qaida leader since he disappeared in Afghanistan in late 2001, the Saudi-born extremist was killed in the Pakistani town of Abbottabad. Bin Laden's son was also killed in the attack.

Having the body may help convince any doubters that bin Laden is really dead.

He had been the subject of a search since he eluded U.S. soldiers and Afghan militia forces in a large-scale assault in 2001.

The trail quickly went cold after he disappeared and many intelligence officials believed he had been hiding in Pakistan.

Obama said shortly after taking office in 2009, he directed CIA Director Leon Panetta to make the killing or capture of bin Laden the "top priority" in the war against al-Qaida. In August, Obama was briefed on a possible lead to bin Laden, he said.

Obama warned that the fight against terrorism is not ended. "There's no doubt that al-Qaida will continue to pursue attacks against us," he said.

U.S. diplomatic facilities around the world were placed on high alert following the announcement of bin Laden's death, a senior U.S. official said; the U.S. State Department was expected to send out a "worldwide caution" for Americans. Some feared al-Qaida supporters may try to retaliate against U.S. citizens or institutions.

Besides Sept. 11, Washington also has linked bin Laden to a string of attacks—including the 1998 bombings of American embassies in Kenya and Tanzania.

"Tonight we are once again reminded that America can do whatever we set our mind to," Obama said. "That is the story of our history." CNN, REUTERS, BLOOMBERG

End of line for terror mastermind

CNN

The most prominent face of terror in America and beyond, Osama bin Laden, has been killed in Pakistan, U.S. officials said Sunday.

bin Laden

Bin Laden was the leader of al-Qaida, the terrorist network behind the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on the U.S.

The enormity of the destruction—the World Trade Center's towers devastated by two hijacked airplanes, the Pentagon partially destroyed by a third hijacked jetliner, a fourth flight crashed in rural Pennsylvania, and more than 3,000 people killed—gave bin Laden a global presence.

The Saudi-born zealot commanded an organization run like a rogue multinational firm, with subsidiaries operating secretly in dozens of countries, plotting terror, raising money and recruiting young Muslim men—even boys—from many nations to its training camps in Afghanistan.

He used the fruits of his family's success—a personal fortune estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars—to help finance al-Qaida in its quest for a new pan-Islamic religious state.

Even before Sept. 11, bin Laden was already on the FBI's Ten Most Wanted Fugitives list. He had been implicated in a series of deadly, high-profile attacks that had grown in their intensity and success during the 1990s.

Bin Laden eluded capture for years, once reportedly slipping out of a training camp in Afghanistan just hours before a barrage of U.S. cruise missiles destroyed it.

On Sept. 11, sources said, the evidence immediately pointed to bin Laden. Within days, those close to the investigation said they had their proof.

After the attack, President George W. Bush made it clear bin Laden was the No. 1 suspect. "I want justice," Bush said.

"Cannot express how this feels to my family, but relief is one word. We hope we can now focus on all that that madman took, namely nearly 3,000 + innocent victims, and not on him."

Carie Lemack, whose mother, Judy, was killed on American Airlines Flight 11 on Sept. 11, in an email to CNN.

Heavy overnight rains pushed Ohio River flood levels in downstate Cairo, Ill., to a record high Sunday as the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers continued weighing whether to blow up a nearby levee to ease flooding around the town.

'Obey' art goes up at Navy Pier

Shepard Fairey, the artist best known for his Barack Obama "Hope" poster in 2008, is leaving his mark near Chicago's lakefront. As part of the Navy Pier Walk 2011 art exhibition, Fairey has created a giant poster mural for the Lake Shore Drive viaduct at Grand Avenue. Measuring 130 by 10 feet, the "Obey" mural features a string of album cover-like works. It will remain at the site through October. The largest outdoor installation of its kind in the country, Navy Pier Walk 2011 opens July 1, after a five-year hiatus.

Mayor-elect sets up transition as Daley takes victory lap

Chicago Tribune

The day after he was elected, Rahm Emanuel issued a matter-of-fact reminder: "There will be one mayor at a time."

"It is not my job to plant my car in front of his," Emanuel said of Mayor Daley, the politician he'll soon succeed.

Yet Emanuel is gunning it full speed ahead.

He's been front and center for a couple of weeks, announcing his choice for Chicago Public Schools CEO and highlighting a slew of other team members day after day.

Privately, he's been involved in negotiations for major education reform in Springfield and conducted his own interviews for a soon-to-be-announced police superintendent.

Daley, meanwhile, is on a relatively quiet neighborhood farewell tour, a last victory lap after running the city for 22 years.

Emanuel won't be sworn in until May 16, but you could forgive folks for thinking he's already mayor.

It's partly the function of a longer-than-usual lame-duck period. Emanuel sewed things up Feb. 22, sidestepping the April 5 runoff election many expected. In Washington and Springfield, major changes often are pushed through during the interregnum. In Chicago, the rare change of leadership means city government idles.

Despite the potential for breaches of etiquette and bruised egos, Emanuel and Daley say there's no tension. After all, Emanuel worked on Daley's first winning mayoral campaign, and the mayor's political organization helped Emanuel get elected to Congress.

"(Daley) knows that I've got to hit the ground running, and he respects that I have to put a team in place ... given the challenges we as a city collectively face," Emanuel said last week. "I not only applaud what he's done ... I will keep applauding it after he leaves office."

Daley said it's important to have a smooth transition and doesn't mind the attention his successor is getting.

"There's no flaws or any difficulties," Daley said last week. "That's very important."

Even though Emanuel doesn't yet hold the honorific, aldermen and others have taken to calling him mayor. That doesn't seem to faze Daley as he prepares to cede the office.

Asked two weeks ago if he had any intention of taking part in a shadow mayoralty once he leaves City Hall, Daley broke out Emanuel's pet phrase.

"No, no, definitely no. We have one mayor. One mayor, that's all," Daley said. "I want to make sure Rahm Emanuel will be the mayor May 16, and he will have the bully pulpit. He will have the responsibility."

1.5 million turn out to honor John Paul II

7 VATICAN CITY The late Pope John Paul II moved a major step closer to sainthood Sunday at a ceremony that drew about a million and a half people to Rome and was celebrated by Catholics around the world.

"From now on Pope John Paul II shall be called 'blessed,'" Pope Benedict proclaimed in Latin, bringing cheers to the largest crowd in Rome since John Paul's funeral six years ago.

Benedict praised his predecessor as a man who "restored to Christianity its true face as a religion of hope."

John Paul, who was the first non-Italian pontiff in 450 years and brought a message of peace on more than 100 foreign trips, died in 2005 and his sainthood cause was given fast-track treatment by his successor.

The crowd in Rome stretched as far back as the Tiber River, more than a quarter-mile away. Devotees, many clinging to national flags, rosaries and water bottles as they sang, thronged the Vatican from all directions from before dawn.

Many camped out during the night near the square, which was bedecked with 27 posters illustrating each year of his pontificate, and one of his most famous sayings, "Do not be afraid!"

Endeavour's final launch still on hold

9 KENNEDY SPACE CENTER, Fla. A plan to launch the space shuttle Endeavour on Monday has been scrubbed, and a new launch likely will not come before the end of the week at the earliest, officials said Sunday.

Endeavour's final launch was delayed by at least 72 hours Friday because of concerns about the shuttle's heating system. Monday was the earliest possible liftoff date following the delay.

The delay postponed what promised to be an emotional moment for the shuttle's commander, Mark Kelly. Kelly's wife, U.S. Rep. Gabrielle Giffords, traveled to watch the shuttle's ascent. Giffords was nearly killed Jan. 8 when she was shot by a would-be assassin in Tucson, Ariz.

MOB BOSSSES

THEY DO THEIR JOBS, NO QUESTIONS ASKED—MEET THE BULLS' SUPER SUBS

By Bryan Crawford

FOR REDEYE

If an NBA team wants to win a title, it needs a go-to superstar to take over the game in the clutch—at least that's the oft-stated cliché.

The Bulls have that in Derrick Rose. It's even better if that squad has a solid, top-to-bottom lineup to complement its superstar.

The Bulls have that too.

The 2011 Bulls have relied on the second unit of Taj Gibson, Kyle Korver, Ronnie Brewer, C.J. Watson, Kurt Thomas, Omer Asik and Co. like perhaps no other team in the playoffs. So much so that most fans know the reserves by their collective nickname: the Bench Mob.

"C.J. started that name, and as a unit the bench has adopted it because we're always dogging out the first squad [in practice], like we did today," Gibson said Friday.

The final score after Friday's 90-minute practice session was 10-10, but Gibson insisted it wasn't really that close.

"Nah, [the coaches] cheated," he said. "We were up 10-4."

The Bench Mob has often beat the first team head-to-head this season, some Bulls admit. Rose first outed the bench's scrimmage wins in February. Their success prompted third-year guard Watson to nickname the reserves, and the rest is history.

"No question, they win a lot," starting center Joakim Noah said. "But it's competitive, and that's the way it's supposed to be. Everybody is supposed to make each other better."

Consistently beating a team of stars including Rose, Carlos Boozer, Luol Deng and Noah on a daily basis, even if it is just practice, can build the reserves' and the coach's confidence.

"Bench production is always important," said coach Tom Thibodeau, who has the Bulls in the second round of the NBA playoffs for the first time in five years. "Whoever you're calling upon, they have to be ready to go. We feel very strongly about our bench."

The bench has been ready to go more often than not. Korver, Watson and Asik played in all 82 regular season games. Brewer missed just one—the regular-season finale—because of a sprained thumb.

In the playoffs, Korver in particular has stepped up his game. He hit critical 3-pointers in games 1 and 2 of the Indiana series and helped seal the Game 3 victory with 10 fourth-quarter points.

It's enough to evoke NBA Finals memories of John Paxson's memorable Game 6, 3-point dagger against Phoenix in 1993 or Steve Kerr's winning shot from the top of the key in Game 6 against Utah in 1997.

If the Bulls are going to repeat those heroics, Noah knows they'll need the Mob.

"The bench is huge," he said. "Every one of those guys has played extended minutes for us throughout the year and really helped us get to where we want to be. We wouldn't be in the position we're in right now if it wasn't for them."

Brewer attributed some of the Bench Mob's effectiveness to pride in wanting to continue the success of the starters.

"We don't want to be the group that when the starters get subbed out we blow the lead or get blown out," Brewer said. "If we're up, we want to push the pedal down and try to make a team give up. ... We really don't like our names in the paper or a lot of praise. We just want to play hard every night at both ends."

Many of the Bench Mobsters could be starters for other NBA teams, but it's their individual sacrifices, Gibson said, that has made this the most successful season this team—and this city—has seen in over a decade.

"We understand that we have a lot of guys that have had starting jobs before," Gibson said. "I started last year, Ronnie Brewer has

THE HITMAN Kyle Korver

When it's time to take a team out, you have to call in your shooter to finish the job. Korver has been especially clutch in the first round of the playoffs. When you want to put a team out of its misery quickly, count on No. 26 to finish the job.

started, C.J. Watson has started, Omer started in the European League. Everybody on our bench has had a lot of experience starting. But we don't have any egos on the second unit."

The Bench Mob might not have egos, but they have confidence in one another.

"All year, it's been a huge asset for us," Korver said. "Look at Rasual [Butler]. He played great [in the regular-season finale], and he hadn't played for us all year. We have a lot of reserves who have started in the past and play well when given an opportunity."

Although the Bench Mob has reached cult status among fans and gotten its share of spotlight, Noah said the Bulls reserves still are underappreciated.

"They don't get enough credit," he said. "The beauty of this team is that we have high character. People are ready to sacrifice to get to where we want to be, and that's what it's all about."

COACH WITH THE MOST

As speculated for the past few weeks, Bulls coach Tom Thibodeau (above) was named the NBA's coach of the year on Sunday. He received 76 of 119 first-place votes and 475 points overall. "I think it's more of a team award," Thibodeau said. "When you win the way we've won—and hopefully we have more winning to do—individuals get recognized. But it's more about the team and organization and players and entire coaching staff."

Whizzer thinks the Bulls won't have much trouble with Atlanta

By Whizzer

REDEYE

The Bulls-Atlanta series looks like a mismatch—on paper. And, lemme tell you, I know all about going “on paper.”

The Bulls have the likely NBA MVP, the coach of the year, one of the league's top defenses, Joakim Noah's hair. Atlanta has Joe Johnson, an out-with-injury Kirk Hinrich, Bulls castoff Jamal Crawford and not a lot else. I'm exaggerating, obviously. They have nothing else.

Oh, I almost forgot about this. There's one other thing the Hawks don't have: a chance to beat the Bulls.

Sure, the Hawks are better than Indiana, which gave the Bulls trouble in Round 1. But it's not the Pacers or the Hawks who dictate what happens. It's the Bulls. If they play to their potential, I can count on one tail the number of teams that can beat them. And it's not Atlanta.

So how does this prognosticating pooch see this series playing out? Here now, my picks.

GAME 1:
BULLS VS. ATLANTA,
7 P.M. MONDAY

The Bulls come out firing like Dick Cheney on a hunting trip. And I don't mean they're hitting people in the face ... oh, never mind. Let's say the Bulls are on fire, even Keith Bogans, who nails a few 3s, in front of a fired-up United Center crowd.

Whizzer's prediction:
Bulls 89, Hawks 80

GAME 2:
BULLS VS. ATLANTA,
7 P.M. WEDNESDAY

Before the game, Derrick Rose gets his MVP award, then goes out and shows why he's the king of Chicago. He unleashes some jaw-dropping drives to the hoop, unloads from 3-point range and is typically unbelievable. Someone call the undertaker.

Whizzer's prediction:
Bulls 92, Hawks 87

GAME 3:
BULLS AT ATLANTA,
6 P.M. FRIDAY

Carlos Boozer's toe is hurting. Rose is struggling and Noah is in foul trouble. Who you gonna call? The Bench Mobsters. Yes, this is the Taj Gibson, Ronnie Brewer and Kyle Korver show. You've seen it before. Ilove reruns.

Whizzer's prediction:
Bulls 84, Hawks 79

GAME 4:
BULLS AT ATLANTA,
7 P.M. SUNDAY

Without the defense of the injured Kirk Hinrich, the Hawks can't keep up with the Bulls. Turkish Hammer Omer Asik gets some quality minutes as reality finally sucks all the fight out of the Hawks. And is that a Rasual Butler sighting? Why yes it is. Game over.

Whizzer's prediction:
Bulls 96, Hawks 83

BULLS WIN SERIES 4-0.

1	How did Tom Thibodeau celebrate his coach of the year win?	Same way I would: Laser tag and one of those Crocodile Mile slip-and-slide things.	By watching tape and trying to figure out why he didn't win coach of the century.	Treated himself to an additional three hours of film study.	Dissected the royal wedding tape. Disappointed with the way Kate played on her heels.	He and I shared some Bear claws. I found it slightly awkward.
2	Time for your Bulls-Atlanta series prediction.	Only contest Chicago loses to ATL is in "Ignorantly dope strip clubs." Bulls in six.	Bulls in five, which will have Thibodeau reviewing even more tape.	Captain Kirk and the Hawks can't run with the Bulls. Chi in six.	The A-T-L will get its b-u-t-t kicked by the M-V-P.	Bulls sweep, Jamal Crawford tries to rejoin team by hiding in Kurt Thomas' luggage.
3	NBA teams have been issuing T-shirts for fans to wear at games. What would you hand out?	Rocky Mountain Oysters. Google it.	My phone number—to all the Luvabulls.	Tasers to fans with floor seats—to be used on Boozer when he doesn't play up to snuff.	$80 million skirts with the No. 5 on them.	Butt-whoopings.
4	Alfonso Soriano is on a torrid home-run pace for the Cubs. Explain it.	Shoot, he better be hitting home runs, pitching no-hitters and selling hot dogs for that big ol' contract he has.	He's on that drug called Charlie Sheen, but by June he'll be on Martin Sheen.	Starlin Castro's been giving him lessons.	Anyone can hit off the D'bags, err, I mean D'Backs.	He must have found Sammy Sosa's batting practice bats.
5	Make a sports prediction for May.	I'm going to cry at least twice because Christian Ponder went to Minnesota. NOT MINNESOTA, CP7!	None of the Luvabulls will call me.	Chicago sees red as Bulls trample competition en route to the finals.	Ozzie tweets "mayday!" Jerry Reinsdorf may agree.	The Bulls still will be playing when the month ends.

Bears, Pack battle in draft

When the Bears try to look at themselves in the mirror, the Packers keep blocking their view.

Being the best the Bears can be is one thing. Keeping pace with the Packers is another.

And the Packers aren't forgetting about the Bears either.

The Bears drafted an offensive tackle with their first-round pick Thursday. Gabe Carimi probably will play right tackle, which not coincidentally, will see him frequently matching up with the Packers' best defensive player, outside linebacker Clay Matthews.

By choosing Carimi, the Bears may have also chosen the left tackle they will compete against twice a year (at least) for the foreseeable future. Three picks after the Bears, the Packers chose the next best offensive tackle on the board, Derek Sherrod.

Once Sherrod beats out Chad Clifton, he is likely to line up against Julius Peppers, arguably the Bears' best defensive player.

The Bears hated to see the Packers, who already probably had the best offense in football, draft second-round wide receiver Randall Cobb and third-round running back Alex Green.

Then again, the Bears might have preferred

Carimi
BRIAN CASSELLA/TRIBUNE

the Packers helping themselves offensively to giving Matthews a complementary pass rusher. Outside linebacker has been widely perceived as the Packers' biggest need.

Green Bay waited until the sixth round to draft linebackers, and then took two, D.J. Smith from Appalachian State and Ricky Elmore from Arizona. Both were good values who slid in the draft because of poor workouts.

The Packers added to players in the draft, five more than the Bears. But whereas it's possible all of the Bears' draft picks could roster, the loaded Packers might end up cutting up to half of their draftees.

Baltimore 6, White Sox 4

The White Sox left the tying runs on base in the ninth inning of a 6-4 loss Sunday against Baltimore at U.S. Cellular Field. Paul Konerko and Alex Rios were called out on strikes and A.J. Pierzynski grounded out. Rios was ejected on the call.

Arizona 4, Cubs 3

Arizona recorded only five hits but made them count in a 4-3 victory over the visiting Cubs on Sunday. Ryan Roberts hit a solo homer and Dan Hudson pitched seven solid innings for the Diamondbacks, who salvaged a split of the four-game set.

MAY SURVIVAL GUIDE

30 ways to welcome a very belated spring

By Jessica Galliard

Congratulations! You've finally reached the finish line: spring. And the best news of all? May doesn't look to disappoint, with dozens of outdoor parties, fests, freebies and killer performances. What are you waiting for? Put down the paper and get on it, folks.

JESSICA GALLIART IS THE METROMIX EVENTS PRODUCER.
JGALLIART@TRIBUNE.COM, @METROMIXCHI

8 Hide your wire hangers—pay homage to Mother at a special Mother's Day screening of "Mommie Dearest" at Music Box Theatre (3733 N. Southport Ave.) with pre-show entertainment and a costume contest.

2 Lace up your running shoes for the Polish Constitution Day Hash, celebrating the Polish-American holiday with the Chicago Hash Harriers on a 4-mile fun run through Roscoe Village.

9 Welcome Chicago native Jeff Garlin back to town for This Is Your Brain on Comedy, a fundraiser featuring comedy sets by the "Curb Your Enthusiasm" actor and comedian Steve Byrne at Mayne Stage, 1328 W. Morse Ave.

15 Think "green" for events and exhibits on sustainability at the annual Green Festival at McCormick Place, 2301 S. Lake Shore Drive.

16 Spot the next up-and-coming Chicago LGBT singing star at Scarlet (3320 N. Halsted St.) for the eighth week of the Windy City Gay Idol competition.

22 Pack your appetite for food tastings, cooking demos and more at the Chill & Grill food festival in Lincoln Park, 1728-1819 N. Stockton Drive.

23 Act fast to grab a good spot in the grass for Millennium Park's (201 E. Randolph St.) first Downtown Sound: New Music Mondays free concert of the season, with Bonnie Prince Billy, Cairo Gang and Eleventh Dream Day.

29 Strap on a helmet and take over Lake Shore Drive on two wheels for the annual Bike the Drive bicycle ride down the car-free stretch of road. Starts at Columbus and Jackson drives.

30 Browse through goods for enthusiasts and fetishists at the International Mr. Leather conference's leather market at Riverside Plaza, 2 N. Riverside Plaza.

SUNDAY

3 Show off your best Chicago Bulls gear to the crew at Sprinkles (50 E. Walton St.) to snag a free red velvet cupcake.

4 Take the morning off for a trip to the Green City Market (1750 N. Clark St.), opening today.

5 Sate your Thirsty Thursday with margaritas, live music and more at Salud's (1471 N. Milwaukee Ave.) Cinco de Mayo outdoor bash.

6 Keep your eyes on the prize while playing "Guitar Hero" with ladies in the buff at Naked Girls Reading: Rock at Everleigh Social Club (939 W. Randolph St.) after the women read selections from biographies, song lyrics and liner notes.

7 Fancy it up and sip on mint juleps as you watch the Kentucky Derby races at Chicago Q, 1160 N. Dearborn St.

10 What's Milhouse's last name? If you can answer this correctly, round up the gang for "The Simpsons" trivia night at Ginger's Ale House (3801 N. Ashland Ave.) to win prizes and bragging rights.

11 See what one of TV's queens of mean has up her sleeve at Chelsea Handler's performance at The Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St.

12 Commence practicing in front of the mirror to prep for your performance at the Air Guitar Championships at Double Door, 1572 N. Milwaukee Ave.

13 Head to the South Loop (1000 S. Wabash Ave.) for a parade, exhibits, art sales and more at Columbia College Chicago's Manifest urban arts festival.

14 Jam with DJs from the Chicago Independent Radio Project as you peruse second-hand decor, furniture and clothing at The Vintage Bazaar pop-up shop, 2229 S. Halsted St.

17 Here's to you, Paul Simon. Watch the songwriting legend live in concert at The Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St.

18 Ask "Community" star Donald Glover to recite the closing credits rap with you at the Chicago stop of his I Am Donald rap-comedy-video tour extravaganza at Park West, 322 W. Armitage Ave.

19 Channel your inner Dorothy for the Chicago History Museum's (1601 N. Clark St.) We're Off to See the Pubs trolley tour of Chicago taverns associated with "The Wizard of Oz" characters and learn how the Windy City inspired the idea for The Emerald City.

20 Kick off festival season at Lakeview's (Ashland and Barry avenues) Chicago Mayfest bash, featuring a pet parade and live music.

21 Stretch those calf muscles in preparation for Workout in the Park, the annual alfresco fitness party in Grant Park, 400 E. Monroe St.

24 Bust out the stretchy pants for a night of beer and sausage pairings at The Map

Room (1949 N. Hoyne Ave.) for Craft Beer Week.

25 Eat like a king while you wait for payday at Beauty Bar's (1444 W. Chicago Ave.) Pizza Wednesday, with free pies and live rock 'n' roll.

26 Guzzle rare 22-ounce bombers from Three Floyds and Stone Brewing while DJs spin death metal and punk for Craft Beer Week at Small Bar, 2956 N. Albany Ave.

27 Slather on the sun-screen—Chicago's beaches are now open for the season.

28 Partake in some Memorial Day Weekend beer guzzling and people-watching at the Belmont/Sheffield Music Festival at Sheffield and Belmont avenues.

31 Put your bite where your burger is: Wrap up National Burger Month by taking a crack at Timothy O'Toole's (622 N. Fairbanks Court) Big Timmy burger challenge to win a T-shirt.

NIGHTCRAWLERS

SEEN ON THE SCENE AT... DARK LORD DAY, MUNSTER, IND.

Ale, yeah! On Saturday, we made the annual beer lovers' pilgrimage to Three Floyds Brewing for Dark Lord Day, the only day of the year you can buy the acclaimed Dark Lord Russian imperial stout. Here's what some of the Dark Lord's subjects had to say. —CRAIG SEYMOUR

Autumn Sako
23, administrative assistant

What brings you to the festival? I'm always a big fan of beer, so we decided to come out this year. I've actually never been to Three Floyds.

How would you describe the appeal of beer to someone who doesn't drink it? I would just say, like, the different types. Give it a try. There are so many different flavors, especially at a place like this.

What's your favorite beer? I like to stick with Gumballhead. It's a little citrusy. It's refreshing.

Kyle Kartz
28, advertising copywriter

What brings you to the festival? Well, obviously, it's the only time you can get Dark Lord. But I'm kinda a regular at the bar. I think Three Floyds makes some of the best beers around.

How would you describe Dark Lord? It's super strong ... but it's extremely drinkable. It's just really smooth. The sugar is well balanced. It's like a better version of the best stuff you've ever had in your life.

Eric Zeller

What brings you to the festival? Dark Lord, pretty much.

What's the appeal of Dark Lord? Three Floyds is one of the best breweries I've ever had in my life. No. 1 in the Midwest, one of the top 10 in the entire U.S. and the mystery behind Dark Lord drew me here today. It's rare and hardly anyone has ever had it, except for those who've been here.

Would you ever date somebody who didn't drink beer? Probably not.

Lower Back Pain?

Are You or Someone You Know Suffering From Lower Back Pain?

Northwestern University is seeking volunteers who have lower back pain in order to determine where the pain is recognized in the brain. Participants will also be evaluated to determine why pain goes away for some people while it remains for others. This is a 12 month study consisting of 1 visit at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago and 5 MRI scans at Northwestern Memorial Hospital's Olson Pavilion. All visits will take place in downtown Chicago.

- Eligible participants must:
- Be 18 years or older
  - Have a history of lower back pain which began 4-16 weeks ago with pain radiating into the buttocks or legs
  - Be able to undergo a MRI (no pacemakers, metallic implants, or spinal implants)

Please call 312-503-3181 for more information on how you can take part in this research study.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! Taurus

April 20-May 20

You're focusing on self-improvement. The sun is increasing your desire to be the center of attention. Stick with that fitness plan and soon you'll be bedding somebody new and fabulous.

Gemini May 21-June 21

You'll find yourself attracted to someone who isn't your usual "type" as Venus kicks up the heat. You'll be drawn to the pushy waitress or you'll develop the hots for that mouthy construction worker.

Cancer June 22-July 22

Your friends want you to party with them, and all you want to do is stay home watching "Real Housewives." Pluto is making you anti-social. Agree to at least have a beer with a few people. You might meet somebody cool.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

A minor miscommunication with your sweetheart could lead to war if you're not careful. Four explosive planets are making tempers run amok. If your honey complains about something stupid, don't freak out about it. Be Switzerland. Remain neutral.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

The moon is giving you some surprising opportunities for seduction. Just when you thought you'd never date again, somebody gorgeous asks you out.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

Timing is everything. The moon is finally telling you to make your move on that certain someone. Go for it. Instead of being rejected, you could find yourself joyfully—even ecstatically—embraced. Don't let past romantic setbacks spook you.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

You're acting more psychic than ever, and it's getting a little weird. Just because you can read your partner's mind doesn't mean you should go all ghost whisperer on people. Keep your insights to yourself.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

You'll be tempted to issue an ultimatum since four fiery planets are increasing your ego. You want your lover to worship you 24/7. Don't be too pushy—it's not that attractive.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

A moon opposition has you thinking that the last thing you ever want to do is to get involved with someone. News flash: You're wrong. There are plenty of juicy opportunities in your immediate circle for some fun, drama-free romance. Open your eyes.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

A casual friend might be interested in a "friends-with-benefits" arrangement. Neptune hints at concealment, secrets and potential complications.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

You just want to be with someone. You don't want to talk. You don't want to get to know the guy's cat or the girl's Chihuahua. You just want to be together. The moon has you craving silent, sensual contact.

Aries

March 21-April 19

Four planets in your sign are giving you confidence. You'll engage in effortless acts of seduction and enticing scenarios of flirtation. You probably won't stick around the morning after, but whatever.

Latin star lives la vida bowla on his visit

What does a world-famous pop star do for fun the first night he's in Chicago? In the case of Ricky Martin, he went bowling.

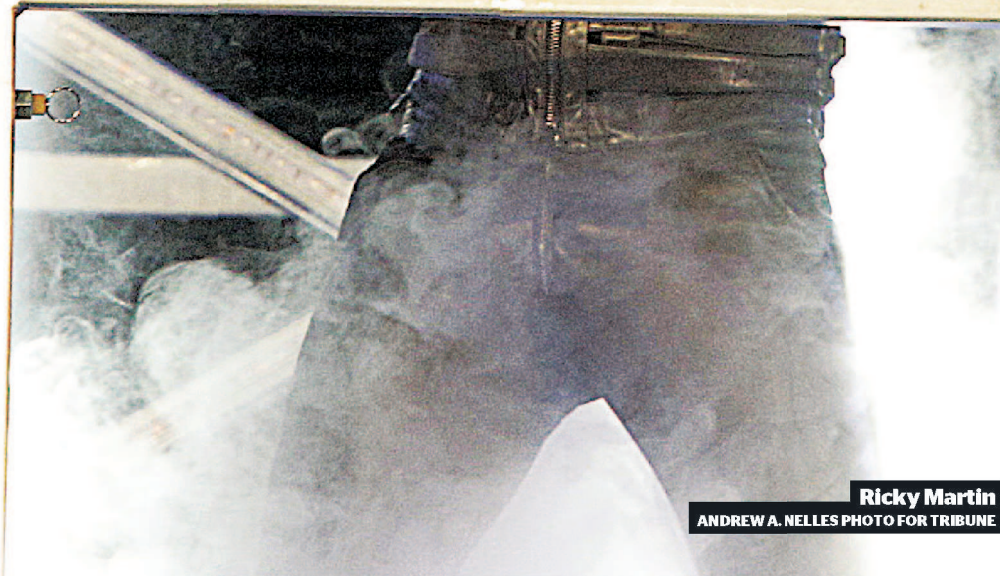

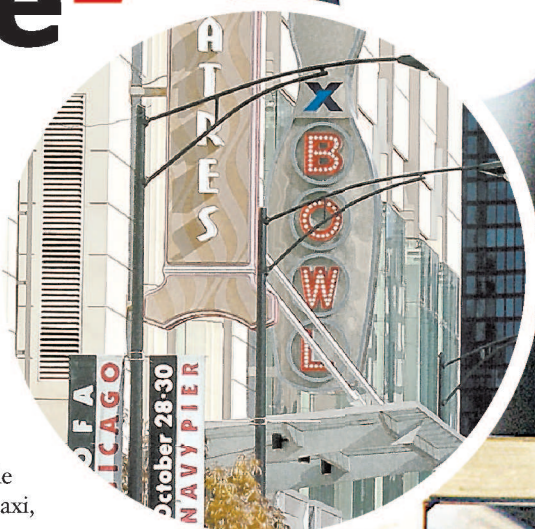

The "Livin' La Vida Loca" singer hit Lucky Strike Lanes in Streeterville on April 18—arriving in a taxi, no less—and bowled with a group of about 25 people. Afterward, he invited Lucky Strike's staff to his concert the next day.

Martin is one of many celebrities who has opted for a night at the upscale bowling alley (there's a dress code) over the club scene. R. Kelly, Ozzie Guillen, Gordon Beckham, Patrick Kane, Tim Meadows and Boston Celtics star Jermaine O'Neal all have stopped by this year.

When asked to name the best celebrity bowler to visit the Streeterville location,

Lucky Strike General Manager Michael Porn said Martin wasn't too shabby—but they've hosted better. "The staff says Michael Jordan has been the best bowler here," Porn said.

Where did Lucky Strike rank among Chicago's top celebrity hangouts last month? Here's the April edition of the About Last Night rankings. FOR MORE OF CHICAGO'S CELEB NEWS, GO TO CHICAGOTRIBUNE.COM/LUIS.

1 Sunda

Sunda is No. 1 for the second straight month thanks in part to Patrick Kane and his Blackhawks teammates, who dined there Thursday before partying at the No. 2 venue.

» Adrian Grenier, David Schwimmer, Travis Barker, Jonathan Toews and Kane

2 The Underground

Several Hawks players partied here again Friday, but Kane wasn't one of them.

Somebody should go check on him.

» Kirstie Alley, Jeremih, Duran Duran, Kane and Toews

3 Hub 51

Hub 51 was Chicago sports headquarters in April. It hosted players from the Bulls, Bears, Cubs, White Sox and Blackhawks.

» Jessica Simpson, Beckham, Kyle Korver, Randy Wells, Troy Brouwer and J'Marcus Webb

4 Public House

Bears tight end Greg Olsen was spotted at Public House with Vince Vaughn and director Peter Billingsley, which isn't surprising. You knew Olsen would go Hollywood once he landed the starring role in "Thor."

5 Table Fifty-Two

Miley Cyrus has dined there the past two times she has visited Chicago. She must think the food is prettay cool.

» Joan Jett, Pat Benatar, Jennifer Beals and Cyrus

Baby, baby!

So much for a candlelight dinner. Mariah Carey and Nick Cannon became the parents of twins—a boy and a girl—on Saturday, the day of their third wedding anniversary. “My wife just gave me the most incredible anniversary gift ever in life! I won’t ever be able to top this!” Cannon tweeted Saturday. No word yet on the babies’ names.

Look who’s in Lakeview

Now here’s a tourist we wouldn’t mind giving directions to. Johnny Depp made his way to Lakeview on Friday to shop at the Chicago Music Exchange and take photos with fans, according to Tribune columnist Luis Arroyave. The “Pirates of the Caribbean” star was in town for an appearance on “The Oprah Winfrey Show.” All right, which A-lister is next?

Beware the Beliebers

Justin Bieber was the target of an egg barrage during a concert Saturday night in Sydney, according to the Daily Mail. The pop star was untouched, but his followers took to Twitter to protest. Wrote one: “You now have over #9million-beliebers after you, be afraid! We go harder than hard!”

‘HANGOVER’ FACEOFF

Now this is a “Hangover” headache. The artist behind Mike Tyson’s famous facial tattoo has sued Warner Bros. over the tattoo’s design being replicated on Ed Helms’ face in the upcoming film “The Hangover Part II.” Warner Bros. declined to comment on the lawsuit. We’re not legal experts, but the “It’s Super Funny” defense should work here, right?

No afternoon delight

Ron Burgundy is not a happy camper. Will Ferrell, who plays the titular character in “Anchorman,” is upset with Paramount Pictures for not green-lighting the sequel, cinemablend.com reports. “Ball’s in their courts, but they’re being idiots,” Ferrell said at a news conference for his new movie, “Everything Must Go.” By the beard of Zeus, this is a tragedy.

THE DIGIT $83.6 MILLION

Vin Diesel’s still got it. That’s how much “Fast Five” earned at the box office during the weekend, according to Reuters, the biggest opening of the year in North America.
